FARE ON SUNDAY EVENING—GEFAT TRIUMPH OF THE STEAM FIRE-ENGINES.—During the heavy gale ou Sunday evening, a fire broke out in a row of buildings on the corner of Vine and Canal streets. These buildings are composed entirely of wood, old, dry, and highly inflammable. This fact, taken in connection with the ucleas aburning cheumstance that a high wind was then prevailing, left no hope in the minds of those who winnessed the fire that any of the buildings could be saved from destruction. The alarm was given, however, and in a few minutes immense streams of water were being ponred on the hurning timhers from seven steam fire-encines; and in an incredibly short time (twenty minutes) the fire was entirely extinguished. This speaks volumes in favor of the steam fire-engines. It the midst of a terrific gale of wind, with a fire fercely raging in the midst of a row of huildings of a most inflammable nature, they were severely tested, but came out of the conflict victorious. Had it not been for these powerful engines, together with the indomitable energy of the firemen, the entire block would most certainly bave heen destroyed.—Cincinnat Enquiver, March 3.

There is a very significant contrast between the

There is a very significant contrast between the foregoing account of the fire in Cincinnati on Sunday night, and the description given in the Louisville papers of the destruction of Breeden's Mill and the adjoining property on Thursday night last. It is evident that our neighbors of the Queen City possess very great advantages over us in their arrangements for extinguishing fires. The one reported in the Cincinnati Enquirer was in many respects similar to the fire here on Thursday night. A high wind pre-vailed, and the huildings were of very inflammable materials. The flames there threatened extensive destruction, but were subdued in twenty minutes by the torrents of water poured upon them from seven powerful steam engines. Here they raged violently and were only conquered after the destruction of nearly all the buildings on the square, and after our gallant firemen were completely worn out with their efforts, and the supply of water was almost entirely

In Cincinnati they have now no fear of any very extensive conflagrations. Here our citizens know not, when a fire begins, where its ravages will be stopped. The recent severe losses hy fire sternly admonish us that we should lose no time in providing greater security against fires. We have a steam engine, huilt during the administration of Mr. Speed, but it has been worse than useless. It is merely an expense, but because it has been wrongly constructed there is no reason why we might not procure those which will he as efficient as the apparatus now in use in Cincinnati. We hope our "City Fathers" will take these matters into consideration, and provide us with available means to combat fires more effectually than can he done at present.

INDIANA LEGISLATURE .- According to the requirements of the constitution, Saturday last was the last day on which bills could be passed by the Legislature and sent to the Governor for approval. The bill apportioning the State for Senators and Representatives had passed both Houses, but Willard threatened to veto it unless the Revenue bill passed, There was no hope of passing either the Revenue or Appropriation bills, consequently there will be no law to collect taxes during the next two years. There will be no law to pay the salaries of State of ficers, or even the members of the Legislature. The Benevolent Institutions will have to be closed, &c. KENTUCKY TRUST COMPANY BANK .- The Commissioner of this institution, Col. John W. Finnell, has prepared a report concerning its affairs, soon to be handed to the Circuit Court. The expenses of the Commissioner for two years amounted to $33,-930.41. A special Commissioner has examined, sounted, and cancelled $742,838 of the circulation of the bank.

The circulation returned, and other liabilities of the bank paid and liquidated since the institution came into the hands of the Commissioner of the Court, amount to 1,028,255.63. This includes $17,-313.10 paid to individual depositors. Among the liabilities $9,474.50 are set down as due to other individual depositors. The circulation yet to be redeemed amounts to $278,776.

SCARCITY OF TOBACCO SEED .- Letters received in this city from different parts of the State report a great demand for tobacco seed. The favorable weather about the first of last month induced the planters to sow at an earlier period than usual, in consequence of which the plants were fully above the ground when we were visited by the late cold spell of weather. They were uearly all killed by the frost, and there is now a general inquiry for more seed. As much as five dollars has been offered for a spoonful of these little seed.

Attempts at murder were made on the 6th ing. inst., by two convicts in the New York State prison at Auburn. One assault was made with a knife, the other with a hammer. By prompt interference of keepers no injury was done to the agent. Feare of further difficulty are entertained. A KENTUCKIAN SWINDLED IN NEW YORK .-- A gang of organized swindlers has been discovered in New York, who are in the habit of selling bogus tickets to California. On the day of the sailing of the last steamer a Kentuckian was done for after this fashion. We quote from the New York Times of Friday :

Mr. Barlow was a tall, shrewd-looking specimen of a Kentuckian, about 45, intelligent, and good humored, from Bourbon county. He left home with his neighbor, Mr. Garfield, of Paris, Ky., and Mr. Theodore Fairchild, of Wi-consin, who, Mr. B. says, is a very honorable gentleman, holding some commission in the land office. They, however, parted company, Mr. F. urriving in the city ahead of him, when he found one of the bogus offices, but, not satisfied that all was right, he had not bought his ticket; he had, however, mentioned the name of his ticket; he had, however, mentioned the name of his tisket; he had, however, mentioned the name of his friend, Mr. Barlow, from Kentucky, whom he expected soon by the Albany train. Mr. Barlow was agreeably surprised to find, as he stepped out of the cars, a gentleman who recognized him, call him by name, was glad to see him, &c., but who "had the advantage" of him, as he had never seen him before. He was soon made cars, however, as he have well that advantage" of him, as he had never seen him before. He was soon made easy, however, as he learned that Mr. Fairchild had got his ticket, and he would show him the same place to get his. He also was going to California, and as there was a great rush, and several hundred troop; going, he would have to be quick to make sure of a passage. They were soon at the office, where they "wate glad to see him;" told him his friend Fairchild had purchased his ticket, and there were so many passengers but a few more were left. Mr. B. and his friend Garfield planked their $150 and took forward cabin tickets, (steerage,) when Mr. Fairchild entered the door, and told him he had not bought a ticket and did not mean to there. Upon this Barlow's dander riz, and he commenced giving the swindlers a piece of his mind in good Kentucky style. He was, however, threatened with a lock-up in the "Calaboose," and a mock policeman was applied to to take him away. A short squabble ensued—Fairchild interfered, gentlemen stool-pigeons standing around, who halled from Longville hitest the the transmission. fered, gentlemen stool-pigcons standing around, who hailed faom Louisville, hinted that he was causing distrust, and was liable to injure the business of the office by unjust aspersions, (in fact he was talking loud,) and—exit Barlow. The next day, old Kentucky found the office of Mr. Raymond, and "reckoned" it was a "mighty bad way to treat strangers," and, as usual, wanted to know if it could not be stopped. He said he read the papers, but thought he was in the true office.

Gentlemen: For years past there has been, and is, a conviction in our mind, as well as in the minds of many of our citizens, that there is water power here, which, if developed and applied, would enable us to compete successfully with other cities in all kinds of manmactures.

Entertaining these views, we introduced a resolution in the Board of Common Council authorizing the Mayor to "contract with some competent engineer to make a survey of the Falls of the Ohio, and report said coutract to the General Council for confirmation." We had no other motive in introducing the resolution but to accertain whether or not that power could be made available for manufacturing and other purposes, the instinuations of the chairman of finances in the Board of Aldermen to the contrary n twithstanding. The resolution was adopted by the Common Council without a dissenting voice. It was then sent into the Board of Aldermen and was referred to the finance committee, of which D. L. Boatty, Esq., is chairman. At the last meeting of the General Council, which was held on the 5th inst., its submitted a report against the adoption of the resolution, and assigned the following among other reasons wby the resolution should not pass:

"As the city of Louisville has so large an interest in the Louisville Water Company, it would be improper for her to cultark her capital in another and rival company."

The resolution which he had under consideration did not provide that the city, in her corporate espacity, should embark her capital in another company.

That that a survey of the Falls of the Ohio should be made, and, if it was found practicable, the present organized water company might use the water power if they found it expedient to do so.

Again he says: "It is not believed that the city, with the many other enterprises she has on band, is prepared to embark in manufactures, and hence your committee can see no good reason for ber expending the money to ascertain and develop a pow

AFFAIRS IN CHINA.

[Correspondence of the Loudon Times,]

Hong Kong, Dec. 30, 1856.

The London mail of the 10th of November arrived here per steamer Madras on the 24th inst.

At Canton the foreign factories have been burned to the ground. The fire commenced about 11 P. M. on the 14th inst., and although every effort was made to arrest the flames, it proved utterly useless, and all the houses were destroyed, with one exception, which has since been guited by the Chinese. It was the result of a well planned and excented scheme on the part of the Chinese. The fire broke out simultaneously at different points, and was aided by combustibles, fire balls and rockets, thrown from the suburbs. Many Chinese houses were also burned.

Mr. O. T. Lane, of the British Consulate, was killed by the falling of a wall during the conflagration.

No attack was made by the Chinese, who appear to have been quite content with burning the houses, by which act they themselves will be the eventual losers. Most of the houses were vacant, but much valuable property has nevertheless been destroyed. At Hong Kong there have been no disturbances, and measures have been taken for the public safety. All Chinese are required to carry a lantern after dark, and between 10 P. M. and daylight none are allowed to move about without a pass. To the respectable portion this is no hardship, and they are quite alive to the benefit they derive from protective measures.

The foreign residents are to be sworn in to-day as special constables, and a fire brigade is to be organized from among them.

The following circular letter from the United States Commissioner explains the present position and attitude of the Americans here. It clearly points to ulterior coercive measures, and it is very desirable that the great foreign powers should act in concert when arranging future relations with Chinaconcert when arranging future relations with China: LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, MACOA, December 28.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, MAGOA, December 28.

His Excellency Peter Parker, Commissioner of the United Santes of America to China, &c., referring to the notice of the 9th Inst., horeby makes known that the reply of the Insperial Commissioner to file Excellency's dispatch of that date was received last evening, and that, with the semblance of a desire to mulutain friendly relations between the two countries, the same disposition to evade obligation, misrepresent facts, and erroneously interpret treaty stipulations which for years has characterized the correspondence of Imperial Commissioners, still obtains with his Excellency Yel; the resumption of trade to any extent at the port of Canton during the extetedee of the local hostilities is not encouraged by the tenor of the communication now received, and means more ample than those now at command will be required to meet the emergency of the public interests of the United States in China, and the satisfactory and proper adjustment of the relation of the Five Ports as an event yet future.

The Viceroy Yeh has shown no desire to arrange matters; indeed, it is said that his power is now overruled by the train bands brought in from the country for the defence of the city.

"Among the losses sustained by the burning of the foreign factories at Canton is to be regreted the irreparable one of Dr. Williams' printing establishment, including the large founts of Chinese type with which Dr. Morrison's Dictionary was printed, and which had been presented to Dr. Williams by the English Government in 1-44. Besides the types and pressee, there was a large slock of books on hand, numbering in all over 10,000 volumes, and comprising the nusoid copies of the "Chinese Repeatory,"
"Chinese Chrestomathy," "English-Chinese Vocatulary," "Chinese Book," "Premare's Nottiin," &c.; in short, the remaining copies of nearly all the works which were issued during the exenty-four years the press had been in opention, and "theof which will never be reprinted. Besides these, Dr. Hance's valuable collection of botanical works has been consumed."

HINTS FOR THE SKASON, -Fruit Trees. -An evil that has been observed to follow early winter pruning is the great evaporation from newly-cut surfaces. The effect will be noticed in the complete faces. The effect will be noticed in the complete shrivelling of the terminal buds on pruned branches. Pruning is frequently deferred till spring in order to avoid the effects just noticed. Evaporation, in such cases, may be prevented by covering the cut surface with a paint of gum shellac dissolved in alcohol. All fruit cultivators should be provided with this preparation for the covering of cut surfaces and accidents to the bark of trees.

Pruning.—Never cut a branch until you can see a satisfactory reason for its removal. In thinning the Young, stunted trees should be pruned well back, and all fruit buds picked out. On the other hand, these that have made strangers growthe should be those that have made strong growths should be and, if the are vigorous, and the lower side branches weak, the latter should be pruned close, and the centre should reduced in vigor by pinching the young shoots tlu-ring growth; pruning them severely now will only increase their future vigor.

Greenhouse .- Continue to shift into layer pots young plants of fuchsias, calceolaries, &c., and re-pot generally all plants that require changing. A soil composed of rotted turfs will answer all purposes; use it without sifting, and let it be rather dry than otherwise. Plants that have hard, matted balls of roots should have the fresh soil pressed as hard as possible, otherwise the water will pass through it without benefiting the plant; many plants. die for want of attention to this point. The pots should be clean, and two or three landsful of broken pots or small charcoal put in the bottom for drainage. Plants that are put in large pots, as cannot be considered to the control of the control melias and azaleas, that have attained a desirable size, and are likely not to be disturbed for a time are all the better for having two or three long strip: of charcoal that will reach from the drainage to the surface of the soil in the pot, inserted while un-dergoing the potting operation. This will prevent solidity in the soil and insure a free circulation of water and air to the roots. To prevent worms and insects from entering into the soil through the drainwater and air to the roots. age, a small piece of perforated zine may be placed in the pot before arranging the material for drainage.—Ilorticulturist.

VARIETIES OF PEAS.—Messrs. Editors: Enquirer, in number two of the present volume, desires to be informed of the earliest and best peas grown in this State. It is indeed gratifying to find your amateur correspondents inquiring for knowledge of the better kinds of garden vegetables. The vegetable garden has heretofore been left with too little attended to the control of the contr garden has heretofore been left with too little attention, so little indeed that this subject has fallen entirely behind the march of improvement now being made in the other branches of horticulture. The recent distribution of seeds from the Patent Office has given an impens to the desire for a more perfect and general knowledge upon the subject than heretofore realized, except in a few individual instances. Aside from the health and pleasure the industrious gardener may enjoy from his pursuit, the pecuniary benefit is surely sufficient to claim the most particular attention.

In relation to the pea, Mr. Thomas Buist, in his "Family Kitchen Gardeuer," remarks: "That, in flavor and quality, there is as great a difference in the pea as in any vegetable with which I am acquainted, though, from observation, cultivators and even cooks have little knowledge of the quality and flavor of the different varieties in cultivation. Some, when merely plain boiled and seasoned, are of themselves a luxury; others require more assistance from the culinary art to make them palatable."

of themselves a luxury; others require more assistance from the culinary art to make them palatable." From the absence of accurate descriptive information concerning garden vegetables, and the general desire for its possession by young beginners, I, four years ago, determined to purchase a small quantity of every attainable species of garden seeds, and submit them to comparative test and culture. My pursuits have since prevented the execution of prevention of pursuits have since prevented the execution of my design. I hope, however, some of the curious in such matters, among the able correspondents of the Country Gentleman, will carry it out, and give us the results of their experience through its pages. The varieties of the pea are almost interminable, many being, however, only sub-varieties, being the same or essentially the same in growth and quality under like circumstances. The specimens I have received of those marked in italies have proved to be about the same as those preceding, the name constituting in most instances the only difference. The duration of growth to maturity and the height deluration of growth to maturity and the height depend much upon the richness of the soil, time of planting, and the due regulation of warmth and moisture. The White Marrowfats and Black-eyed Marrowfats have matured about the same time with me for two seasons past. The Champion of England is the best intermediate sort between the earliest sorts and the White Marrowiats, being one of the richest and best flavored peas grown. It is very preductive, the pods yielding the greatest amount of shelled peas when in an eatable state, not excepting the White Marrowfats, which will be seen by the following table to be one of the largest sized peas. The Champions can be allowed to attain their full size, whereas the Marrowfats, as also most other peas, require to be picked young to be eatable. Although at first feeble and slender, they acquire great vigor in their subsequent growth, and withstand the heat and drouth of summer remarkably. They mature their fruit in successive crops, yielding several fine pickings to a few vines. and the White Marrowiats, being one of the richest and best flavored peas grown. It is very preduc-

GIVE HENS MEAT.—Many persons complain that their hens will not lay, and that, notwithstanding their assidaity in furnishing them with all the articles ordinarily recommended to insure fecundity, the eggs they produce will not "half pay the expenses." Now we presume there is something lacking, or the fowls would certainly not run their owners in debt. It is not generally understood, even by those who profess to be the most deeply versed in the mysteries of "Henology," that the hen, being omnivorous, requires, to insure fecundity, a very liberal allowance of meat! When enjoying her liberty in the fields, pastures, or door-yards, the principal part of her sustenance is derived from insects, worms, &c. She partakes but sparingly at such times of &c. She partakes but sparingly at such times of grain, and often when that article is supplied leaves it for the more inviting food which nature supplies her with, in her favorite haunts. Now if we confine her where the natural propensity for this descrip-tion of food cannot be gratined, even though we supply the best of grain, and in abundance, she will cease to lay. The privation injures her health, and will necessarily be an end of profit until the deficiency is supplied.

EVENING BULLETIN.

TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 10, 1857.

THE BLIND .- Messrs. Wm. Artman and L. V. Hall, who are both blind, have compiled an elegent volume entitled "The Beauties and Achievements of the Blind." It is intended to demonstrate that, even to those who are deprived of sight, high literary attainments are possible. This book contains memoirs of the most eminent blind authors and selections from the most beautiful of their productions. The illustrious examples which are spoken of in this book will be sure to awaken hope and confidence in all such unfortunates, and to teach their fellow men not only pity for their misfortunes but respect and admiration for their attainments. Messrs. Artman and Hall are at present in Louisville, and will canvass the city for the sale of their book. From motives of benevolence few will refuse to purchase the work, but all who examine will find that it is valuable for its contents alone, and the authors seek to sell it not by reason of their infirmity but for the intrinsic merit of their work.

HAND-BOOK OF CONSUMPTION. By Dr. W. W. Hall. New York: Redfield. This is a popular treatise upon consumptiou, its causes, symptoms, progress, and treatment. It is written in a familiar style without any pedantic affectations or the use of a single professional technicality. We have no pretension to familiarity with the healing art, but the treatise appears to us to be a common sense production, containing a great many scusible suggestions and much practical, good advice.

Dr. Hall thinks that consumption may be arrested or permanently cured until within a few weeks of the death of the patient, and gives directions for the course generally to be pursued to attain that end with a single apothecary's prescription. It will be read with interest, if not with profit, hy the afflicted.

XENOPHON'S ANABASIS. By James R. Boise. New York, D. Appleton & Co. Anabasis is one of the most important of Xenophon's historical works. It is written in a pure, elegant, and easy flowing style, and contains a full description of the distinctive features of Greece, Persia, and other countries in the days of the author. It is the most accurate record extant of the Grecian military system. This edition has been prepared for the use of schools and colleges by Professor Boise, of the University of Michigan. The best authorities have been carefully consulted and the text of Hertlein has been adopted, with such modifications as have been approved by the most accomplished Greek scholars in the literary world.

PRINCIPLES OF CHEMISTRY. By John A. Porter, M. A., M. D. New York: A. S. Barnes & Co.

Dr. Porter, Professor of Agricultural and Organic Chemistry in Yale College, has carefully endeavored in this publication to divest the science of chemistry of all those strictly scientific details which are not essential to an ordinary knowledge of the subject and are of interest to none but professional chemists. It is compiled and adapted particularly for the use of schools, and embraces most of the recent discoveries in the science, and the outlines of its application to agriculture and the arts. The rapid progress in chemical discoveries and in the application of chemistry to the useful arts has rendered such a text book necessary.

HARPER'S SCHOOL HISTORY. New York: Harper & Brothers. This work is designed for a textbook of general history for the use of schools. It is compiled by Jacob Abbott for the Harpers, and presents a narrative of the general course of history from the settlement of Nineveh and Assyria to the establishment of the constitutional government of the United States. It is illustrated with numerous plates, and arranged in chronological order.

NEW ROUTE TO THE MISSISSIPPI .- The Milwaukee and Mississippi Railroad is completed to within a few miles of Prairie du Chien, on the banks of the Mississippi river, and will open through for business on the 10th of April. The location of this line is through a fine portion of the State of Wisconsin and is the index finger to northern Iowa and Minnesota. Two first class boats will leave Prairie du Chien da ly, in connection with this line, for St. Paul.

We have already mentioned the case of poisoning at Iudianapolis, in which the boarders of the Ray House were affected very seriously. Thomas Allen, the negro cook, has been examined on the charge and committed to answer. He had made threatening remarks concerning Mr. Ray, proprietor of the hotel, and acted very suspiciously in various respects. A chemical examination developed the presence of arsenic in the coffee.

THE VARIETIES.

Dr. Wm. Symmes, of Andover, who died in 1807, wrote over 4,500 sermons. He burned the whole pile near the close of his life, remarking that "if he had not been obliged to write two sermons a week he might have produced some worth saving."

The Constitutionnel says that the celebrated pianist Liszt has entered the religious order of Francis can monks at Pesth. The same journal adds that M. Hermann, another pianist of note, has entered into a religious house in the south of France.

The statue of the Virgin which is to be erected at Rome in commemoration of the promulgation of the dogma of the Immaculate Conception is finished. While the statue was being cast the priests chanted the Liteny to the Holy Virgin and the workmen gave the responses.

The heavy snow which has fallen on the mountains in the Var, France, has driven numbers of wolves down to the plains, where they have committed great destruction among the flocks of sheep. The shepherds adopted a stratagem to accomplish their destruction. They injected the dead carcans of an ass with poison, which the wolves devoured. and six of them were found dead the following day.

Among the items of the bill of fare provided for the crowd who took part in the terpsichorean finale of the inauguration ceremonies were the following: $3,000 worth of wine, 400 gallons of oysters. 500 quarts of chicken salad, 1,200 quarts of ice cream. 500 quarts of jellies, 60 saddles of mutton, 4 of venison, 8 rounds of beef, 75 hams, 125 tongues, besides pates of various kinds. At the head of the table was a pyramid of cake four feet high, with a flag of each State and Territory, with the coat of arms of each printed on it.

JAMES HEWITT & CO.'S LIVERPOOL CIRCULAR 8 Tower Buildings, North, Liverpool, 20th Pebruary, 1857.

Liverpool, 20th February, 1837.

Cotton.—After the receipt of advices per "Persia," to inaid early on Saturday morning, a very saminated demand spring up, and was continued on Monday, the total sales of the two days reaching nearly 50,000 bales—fully half being on speculation—at prices showing an advance of $\frac{1}{2} \text{dig}$ being on speculation—at prices showing an advance of $\frac{1}{2} \text{dig}$ being on speculation—at Priday's quotations. This large husiness, coupled with heavy sales made to arrive, seemed to have exhausted buyers for the time. The daily sales have since fullen off, and prices have declined $\frac{1}{2} \text{dig}$ b from the extreme rates of Monday. Present quotations Middling Orleans, 72\(\frac{1}{2} \text{dig}$), 71-16d.

The amount of cotton now at sea for Liverpool from American ports is estimated at 107,375 bales, viz:

lireadstuffs.—During the week the trade for both wheat and flour has been quiet. At Tuesday's market there was a fair attendance, and some inquiry for wheat from the local trade, and for shipment to Ireland and the Continent, which resulted in a moderate business in American red, and the finer descriptions of white, at about the prices of the previous week, but at a decline of 1d to 2d on middling and inferior qualities. Flour was neglected, and could not be sold without a concession in prices. Indian corn, owing to its scarcity and the continued export to France and Spain, has been in good demand, and mixed has advanced 3d, white 6d to 9d per quarter, on the rates of last Friday.
Attorday's market the attendance from the country was small. There was a fair inquiry for red wheat, but not much doing in white. Indian corn—mixed 3ds, vellow 33s to 13s, white 35 to 36s 6d. Flour nominal; Western canal 2ds 6d to 31s, Ohio 23s to 34s, St. Louis 35s.

Baron—There is a continued demand for consumption.
At a public auction, on Tuesday, some 600 boxes were sold at prices ranging from 5xs 4d for "Old Dominion" and similar brands to 5st for "McAlisters" long middles, ribbed, 56s for long boneless, and 5ss for inferior Cumberland. The market, bowever, is better than these prices seem to indicate, heiders being firm at 54s for long middles, ribbed, 56s for long boneless, and 5ss to 5ss. Isans, insalt, are held at 55s to 5ss. Shoulders 33s.

Pork.—New is much sought after—a sale belng reported at 93s 6d. Old, in consequence of the scarcity of New, finds bityers at 5ss to 7ss.

Lard is in active demand, both for present and carry delivery. Sales on the spot, and to arrive, are reported at 70s to 7is. To-day a small to brought 7ls 6d at auction.
Some 1,800 tons now at sea, from the United States, are exbected with interest, and may develop the future course of the market.

Tallow loss lost its bnoynney, there is a reaction in prices, Breadstuffs.—During the week the trade for both wheat bected with interest, and may develop the interest. Steeper the market.

Tallow has lost its buoyancy, there is a reaction in prices, and the market closes dull; Petersburg, Y. C., 68; Butchers' Association 65s.

In London the market is fluctuating, 65s having been accepted for February to March, 55s April to June, At the close there was more firances, and an advance of 6d had been recovered.

Yours truly,
JAMES HEWITT & CO.
Messrs. Hewitt & Co., New York; Messrs. Hewitt, Norton, & Co., New Orleans; R. Atkinson, Esq., Louisville, Ky.; and W. Whelese, Esq., Cashier Isank of Nashville, will make each advances on property for our address.

BURKE COUNTY, Jan. 31, 1857.

Mr. R. G. Tomlinson:

"The most surprising thing that has happened is, that Talton R. Butler, a timber getter, of Scriven, went to Savannah since Christmas, to sell timber, and was taken sick, and, it was thought, died. There being a boat about to leave, bis remains were deposited in a coffin and sent bome. On opening the coffin, after its arrival, he was discovered to smile. Medical assistance was immediately obtained, and it is said that be is fast recovering. He was in his coffin nearly two days!

Immense Cable .- The strongest cable ever manu Immense Cadie.—The strongest came ever manufactured for a merchant vessel is now lying at one of the railway stations in this town. The makers of the calile are Messrs. Hingley & Sons, of Cradley and Netherton. It is intended for mooring the United States mail steamship Adriatic in the Sloyne when she arrives, and is considered capable of holding her, large as she is, in the heaviest gale. The length of the cable is 40 yards, and its weight per link 50 lbs. In the process of proving one of the weakest links gave way at 97 tons pressure, with a force that shook the building. A new link was substituted, and the cable withstood a strain of 105 tons. Messrs. Hingley & Sons are making the cables for the Great Eastern, each link of which will weigh 70 lbs.—Liverpool Telegraph.

The Western fever has seized a great number of persous this spring, and is raging in all the free States east of the Mississippi river. All New England, New York, Ohio, &c., are sufferin: from the disease. The emigration to Kansas will be as large this season as last; and Iowa, Wisconsin, Nebraska, and Minnesota are filling up with a rush. Very many of the emigrants will better their condition in their new homes; and many, comparatively happy now, will render themselves wretched and miserable.

It will be seen from a dispatch from Captain Sturgeon that the magnificent steamer Empress will reach there to-night, and leave for New Orleans on Thursday evening. The H. D. Newcomb passed Vickshurg on Monday and is expected to arrive on Friday night and will leave on Saturday. Capt. Reynolds telegraphs from Evansville that the Virginia will arrive at 6 o'clock ! his evening. The steamer R. M. Patton passed Evansville this morning, will arrive to-morrow, and leave on Saturday. The Eclipse will be up to-morrow and leave on Saturday.

Freights are reported to be plenty below. The canal was opened to-day at noon.

(By the Louisville, Shippingsport, and Portland Line.) SHIPPINGSPORT, March 10, 2 P. M. The canal is now open.

BILLIARD TABLES RE-OPENED .- This morning, in his charge to the grand jury, Judge Johnston adverted to the act of the Legislature prohibiting the use of billiard tables, and other similar means of amusement. He thought that the supplemental act extending the time when licenses might be procured to the first of March, 1857, gave full permission for parties to obtain such license and carry on their tables legitimately.

Under this decision of the city court the tables of all those who had procured their licenses prior to the first of March were immediately re-opened.

POLICE PROCEDINGS. - Tuesday, March 10. quartette of poor, unfortunate women - Jane Mc-Cullough, Hester Ann Roberts, Lucinda Hartley, and Margaret Horne - were arrested yesterday in an occupied house on the corner of Main and Floyd streets, where they were beastly drunk. The Horne woman was discharged and the others sent to the workhouse for three months.

Nicholas Goodwin, who is in the employ of Dr. Standiford, in the country, came to town yesterday, and having been sober a long while became very drunk. Discharged on a promise to reform.

Wm. Butler, alias Jas. Butler, alias Thos. Butler, who was committed yesterday for felony, was presented again on the charge of having stolen from Wm. P. Shepperd two pieces of carriage cloth. Required to give additional security.

Lawrence Morgan secreted the articles stolen by Butler, and was committed to answer the charge of receiving stolen goods.

Andy Barnett had demolished the fences and doors of James Donnelly, and was held to bail in $100 to be of good behavior for two months.

A grand jury was empannelled with Alexander Duvall as foreman.

ARRIVAL OF THE EMU.

NEW YORK, March 10. The steamship Emu has arrived with dates to the elicited discussion in the English Parliament. The treaty, it says, stipulated for the actual concurrence of the Austrian armies in the struggle against Russia. Auttria, however, represented that she could not enter into warlike operations in the East so long as her Italian possessions should be menaced by political agitation; and she, therefore, demanded, before placing herself in order of battle, that the security of her Italian lines should be assumed. France gave assistance, but, as Austria did not draw the sword, the object of the convention never existed, and the treaty, therefore, is a dead letter.

THE LADIES ARE BECOMING MORE AND MORE alive every year to the importance of Fur Wrappings, which proves most conclusively that this is a progressive age. There is nothing that does so effectually protect them against the consequences of this changeable climate as Furs, and there is nothing so comfortable, elegant, or durable. They can be had of HAYES, CRAIG, & CO, so cheap that it would be economy to purchase Fur instead of Velvet, Cloth, or Silk Cloaks.

We have still a few sets of Russlan Sable, which we will dispose of so low that it would be an object to purchase them in mipsdamer.

EVENING BULLETIN.

POTATOES -On soil suitable for their production, there is no more profitable crop raised in this vicinity than Irish potatoes," and, notwithstanding the severe droughts of two of the last three seasons, which greatly diminished the yield, we feel assure ? that, for the last six or seven years, it has produced about as much net profit to the farmer as any other crop.

A good grass sod, well broken up in the fall, is probably the most certain of any other land to prois among the shippers so decided a preference for the crop for shipment plant mostly of this kind. It is a well known fact that nearly all the finer kinds of potatoes are less productive than the less nutricions varieties about in proportion to their relative value for the table, but from some cause the Neshanoz seems to be less productive than some other sorts that are nearly or quite as good in quali-

This in many instances may arise from the fact that this variety being more in demand, at high prices, has led to the use of seed which is too small and immature in this variety, while others less in demand have not been picked quite so close.

Many experiments have been tried to test the relative value of large and small potatoes for seed. The results have not been conclusive, for the reason that no one has tested them fairly for a series of years, which is the only way to arrive at satisfactory conclusions. From all we can gather, we incline to the opinion that medium sized potatoes, uncut, will be found to produce the largest crop of merchantable potatoes. If any one wishes to test the matter fairly, we suggest that they select from the same let say a pound each of large, medium, and small potatoes and plant all in similar soil, uncut; and another pound of large potatoes, cut; cultivated alike, and the next season, after noting down the results, select the largest of the large, the medium from the medium lot, and small from the small lot, for seed for another season; continue this for five years, and the information obtained will be well worth all the trouble it will cost. As we said before, we prefer medium sized potatoes for seed, and, for early planting particularly, should prefer them planted uncut, as the cut pieces are more liable to be injured by cold, wet weather.

The ground for the potato crop should be broken up in the fall, if possible, so as to be ready for planting the first suitable weather in March. The earlier they can be planted the better.

Some persons are under the impression that it is not necessary to plow deep for potatoes; but, if they have noticed the decided advantage of deep plowing for this crop during the last dry season, we think they will change their opinion. It is true that the tubers are not formed deep in the ground, but the fibrous roots by which they are sustained will extend as deep as you can find means to open the soil for them, and, if encouraged to delve beyond the influence of the dry, hot surface, so much more sure are you of a large crop for your pains.

In regard to the best method of planting, some different opinions prevail. Some good crops have been produced by planting two sets in hills two and a half feet apart, and this method admits of cultivating both ways. In soil much infested with rank growing weeds this way is probably the best. The usual method is to drop the sets eight or ten inches apart in rows two and a half to three feet apart; indeed this method is almost universal in this locality. yet some think there is an advantage in dropping two sets together 18 or 20 inches apart in the row. We have tried this method several times in fields planted in the ordinary way, by dropping several alternate rows in this manner, but could never discover the least difference.

The general practice is to throw the earth to the vines at the last working, so as to form ridges more or less high; some have advised instead that the soil should be kept level, and the cultivator only be used to lay by the crop. No doubt, in seasons of great drouth, if the early workings have been done with an instrument that kept the soil mellow to a considerable depth, this level culture is the best, as there is less surface exposed to evaporation than those thrown up into sharp ridges; and it is sometimes the case that the plant puts ont new roots above the tubers when thus earthed up, which are not of any benefit to the crop, if indeed they do not injure it by arresting the elaborated sap as it returns from the leaves, to the formation of a second crop of young tubers instead of increasing the size of those already formed. This second series of roots are also so near the surface, that if, as is supposed, they sustain the vigor of the top to a later period in a seasonable year, they are more liable to be cut off by drouth in a dry one than those which extend deeper into the earth. We think that whatever tends to produce a second growth of fibrous roots after the tubers are formed must be injurious to the crop.

In regard to the kind of potatoes to plant, fashion governs this matter as much as any other. There are several kinds of potatoes quite as good as Neshanoes and more productive, but they are not in demand, and hence, except for family use, they are not profitable. Seed potatoes brought from the North have been found more productive than those raised in this vicinity. There is a large coarse potato known as the "long red" or horse potato, which, though very inferior during the fall and winter, are really fine late in the spring when other kinds begin to deteriorate. Every farmer should grow a few of these for family use late in the spring. They are very productive.

It is a common opinion that potatoes will mix when different varieties are grown together. We hold this to be impossible. The opinion is no doubt based moon the fact that the most carefully selected seed will in a few years contain many inferior sorts. This is no doubt to be attributed to the fact that the inferior kinds increase more rapidly than the best kinds, with which they are mixed; so that a single small tuber, which may have escaped notice in a lot of fine Neshanoc seed, by producing several small potatoes each year will greatly increase the probability of being included, and thus they are gradually increased each season.

A writer in the Gennesee Farmer thus speaks of seed potaloes:

A very important object in planting potatoes is to have sound seed of a good variety. All who have planted the same kind of potato a number of years on the same farm know that the potato will run out or get watery and hollow in the heart, and the evil increases every year, whatever the season may be. Such potatoes can be restored to their former so ness, with the loss of only one season, in the follow-ing manner: Save back two or three bushels of po-tatoes for six or seven weeks after the usual time of planting—say until the last of June—then plant them in the usual manner. They will not be ready to dig till a frost has wilted the vines. On digging them then, they will be found to be quite small; save them carefully till spring, and plant them at the usual planting time, and if the season is favorable they will produce large potatoes and as sound as ever that variety was originally.

CHARLES SEAGAR,

Waverly, Morgan co., Ill.

The deterioration of potatoes when grown on the same soil for a number of years has been remarked in some localities, while iu others the same seed has been used for 20 years without any apparent falling off either in size, quality, or quantity. The suitableness of the soil to the crop doubtless has much to do with the quality for seed, and, where there is noduce a good crop of large, sound, potatoes. There | ticed any falling off in any respect, no time should be lost in obtaining other seed. The plan of plant-"Neshanoc" that nearly all persons who raise this ing a portion of the crop late is sometimes practiced by persous under the belief that the produce is dryer and better-flavored for winter and spring use. It may be that it has a beneficial effect on seed potatoes; at least it seems worth a trial. The late crop is always smaller than that planted early, and in seasons like the last it would most likely be just nothing at all.
